

Learning Framework - Social Science

CENTRAL BOARD OF SECONDARY EDUCATION (CBSE)

Foreword

The National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 released by the Government of India, has given a clear mandate for competency-based education (CBE) to enhance acquisition of critical 21st century skills by the learners. The first determinant for implementing CBE is a curriculum which is aligned to defined learning outcomes and that clearly states the indicators to be achieved.

The Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) has collaborated with Azim Premji University, Bengaluru, to develop the Learning Framework for Science, Mathematics, Social Science, English and Hindi for classes 9 and 10. The Learning Frameworks comprise explicitly stated knowledge, skills and dispositions that an education system should try to achieve. These frameworks would help develop a common shared understanding among teachers, students and other stakeholders and would serve as a common benchmark for teaching, learning and assessment across the country. These frameworks present indicators that are aligned to the CBSE curriculum and the NCERT Learning Outcomes. They further outline samples of pedagogical processes and assessment strategies to encourage curiosity, objectivity, creativity with a view to nurture scientific temper. This framework would be a key resource for the teacher as he/ she transacts the curriculum. They have been developed to ensure that the teacher aligns the teaching learning to meet the set quality standards and also use it to track learning levels of students. The effort has been to synchronize focus on quality education with uniformity in quality of standards across CBSE schools.

We hope, these frameworks would not only become a reference point for competency-based education across the country but also facilitate planning and design of teaching-learning processes and assessment strategies by teachers and other stakeholders.

Team CBSE

Preface

The shift towards competency-based teaching and learning in the National Education Policy 2020 will be an important basis for curricular and pedagogical transformation in schools. The learning goals defined by the Policy, namely holistic and integrated development of students, and the acquisition of higher order cognitive capacities such as analysis, critical thinking and problem solving will be enabled by this shift. Such competencies will also enable equitable educational experiences through ensuring equivalence of pedagogical approaches and learning outcomes across schools and Boards of Examination.

In keeping with the thrust on competency-based teaching-learning proposed in the National Education Policy, 2020, Azim Premji University has supported the Central Board of Secondary Education to develop a 'Learning Framework'. The learning framework is a comprehensive package which provides learning outcomes, indicators, assessment frameworks, samples of pedagogical processes, tools and techniques for formative assessment, blueprint, assessment items and rubrics. Five such frameworks have been developed for English, Hindi, Science, Social Science and Mathematics at the secondary stage.

This document details the Learning Framework for Social Science. The social sciences curriculum at the secondary stage helps in developing knowledge, skills, and dispositions for lifelong learning and capacitates students to explore multiple approaches that may be used to analyse and interpret their own world and the world of others. It bears the responsibility to create and expand the conditions to spread the constitutional values of equality, liberty, justice, fraternity, trust, and respect for diversity. It sets the stage for the voice of multiple genders, the marginalised, disadvantaged as well as local perceptions that are quintessential to all discussions. The subject brings multiple ways of imagining and understanding the diversity of India. The National Position Paper on the Teaching of Social Science of the NCF 2005 emphasizes the role of social science in inculcating children's critical thinking capacities and understanding of the world around them. According to the position paper,

"At the secondary stage, social sciences comprise elements of history, geography, political science and economics. The main focus will be on contemporary India, and the learner will be initiated into a deeper understanding of the social and economic challenges facing the nation... Contemporary India will be discussed from the perspectives of the Adivasi, Dalit and other disenfranchised populations and effort should be to relate the content much as possible to the children's everyday lives." (p. viii).

The Learning Framework document for Social Science is based on the core objectives of social science education. It presents outcomes and indicators that teachers of social science need to inculcate among students. In addition to this, sample pedagogical processes, formative assessment strategies and summative assessment blueprints and sample items are also provided. These samples will enable teachers to derive principles for making the alignment between learning outcomes-pedagogy and assessment in their classrooms which in turn would foster competency based education in their classrooms.

1. Introduction

The development of quality standards is paramount for any education board to understand and track the learning level of students in the country. These standards comprise explicitly stated knowledge, skills, and dispositions that the education system should strive to achieve. The quality standards are expected to serve as common benchmarks for teaching, learning and assessment. It is hoped that this framework would enable teachers, schools, and other boards to design teaching-learning processes and develop assessment tools. The Learning Framework is a comprehensive package which delineates indicators, assessment frameworks, samples of pedagogical processes, tools and techniques for formative assessment purpose, blueprint, and assessment items and rubrics.

2. Process of Developing the Learning Framework Document

An academically rigorous process has been undertaken to develop this document for the subjects, namely, English, Hindi, Social Sciences, Science and Mathematics. The flow diagram below depicts the steps in the process of developing the Learning Framework.

2.1 Describe the Nature of the Subject

The school curriculum as per the National Curriculum Framework 2005, is a broad plan for facilitating certain capabilities in children which are guided by the larger aims of school education. These aims of education are an interplay of various variables – philosophical, psychological, existing socio-cultural context and the needs of the society, the nature of learning and many more informed by research. Various school subjects enable in pursuing these aims through their distinct disciplinary focus and methods. This section clearly states the processes followed for constructing knowledge in a subject and the tools and methods of enquiry used in each subject. Further, the relevance of engaging with the given subject in school education is highlighted. The research affirms that an in-depth understanding of the nature of the subject would enable a teacher to design quality pedagogy and assessment in alignment with the subject-specific skills.

2.2 Indicate the NCERT Curricular Expectations and Learning Outcomes

The broad aims of school education stated in NEP 2020 are to:

1. Develop good human beings capable of rational thought and action, possessing compassion and empathy, courage and resilience, a scientific temper and creative imagination, with sound ethical moorings and values
2. Build character, and enable learners to be ethical, rational, compassionate and caring
3. Achieve full human potential – through developing all aspects and capabilities of learners
4. Develop the creative potential of each individual
5. Enable learners to learn to think critically and solve problems, and use a multidisciplinary perspective
6. Enable learners to innovate, adapt and absorb new material in novel and changing fields
7. Enable children to not only learn but more importantly, learn how to learn
8. Develop engaged, productive and contributing citizens for building an equitable, inclusive and plural society as envisaged by our Constitution
9. Achieve economic and social mobility, inclusion and equality by ensuring all students can access quality education, with particular focus on historically marginalised, disadvantaged, and underrepresented groups
10. Prepare a workforce with multidisciplinary abilities across the sciences, social sciences, arts and humanities through experiential, holistic, integrated, inquiry-driven, discovery-oriented, learner-centred, discussion-based, flexible and enjoyable education.

The curricular expectations related to different age groups are spelt out stage-wise for various levels- primary, upper primary, secondary and senior secondary. These are stated at a broader level and pitched at the right level of students' understanding. This document refers to the curricular expectations as defined in The Learning Outcomes at the Secondary Stage, National Council for Educational Research and Training (NCERT) document. These curricular expectations form the basis for organising the age-appropriate content based on students' prior knowledge. Curricular expectations for a subject are ascertained through a range and variety of specific learning outcomes defined for each class. The NCERT Learning Outcomes at the Secondary Stage is the primary point of reference for this document. Learning Outcomes provide a benchmark on which learning progress can be tracked in both quantitative and qualitative ways.

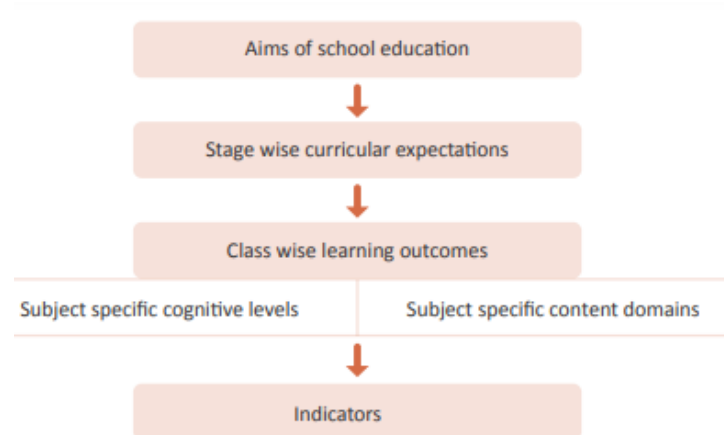

The NCERT Learning Outcomes linked with curricular expectations are competency-based and help to determine the pedagogical processes for their development. The competency-based learning encourages students to not only acquire knowledge but also apply knowledge and skills to successfully perform tasks in real-life situations.

2.3 Identify Subject-specific Content Domains as per CBSE Syllabus

The learning outcomes for each subject are expressed in terms of cognitive skills to be demonstrated and the content to be acquired by the students. In accordance with the nature of the subject, the CBSE curricula organizes content domains according to various themes for every subject. To help teachers see the connection between syllabus, textbook and learning outcomes, relevant NCERT learning outcomes are mapped to each of these content domains/ themes.

2.4 Define Subject-specific Cognitive Levels

Cognitive levels describe the thinking processes that students are expected to develop while learning a subject. Revised Bloom's taxonomy provides a useful frame of reference to classify the learning outcomes. It also helps in designing and aligning the classroom pedagogy and assessment practices with the learning outcomes. In this document, an attempt is made to define the subject-specific cognitive levels that essentially draw from Revised Bloom's Taxonomy. Such subject-specific cognitive levels capture the disciplinary knowledge and skills in a graded and concrete manner and helps in illustrating what sort of thinking is required in a social science classroom.

2.5 Devise Indicators for Every Learning Outcome

The broad and overarching learning outcomes of social science are further broken down into specific indicators aligned to the subject-specific skills and the content in related chapters in the textbook. They are focused on subject-specific skills that students need to attain through different concepts addressed in the CBSE curriculum. A clear understanding of the scope of these learning outcomes for each concept dealt with within a textbook chapter will be immensely helpful for both teachers and students to plan their teaching and learning in a better way. Therefore, indicators aligned to subject-specific skills are defined for every learning outcome. These indicators:

- Are aligned to the goals of teaching the subject at the secondary stage
- Are defined as specific, measurable, and demonstrable competencies
- Are distributed across all content domains/ themes as per the prescribed CBSE syllabus
- Address 21st century skills including collaboration, communication, creativity, and critical thinking across school subjects
- Range from simple to complex cognitive processes for all subjects
- Are supplemented with sample assessment strategies and provide suggestions to concretise these in the classrooms

2.6 Design Sample Pedagogical Processes and Assessment Strategies

The NCERT Learning Outcomes at the Secondary Stage document provides a common set of pedagogical processes for each subject. The specific indicators are further supported with sample pedagogical and assessment strategies. This has been done to enable teachers to derive principles for making the alignment between learning outcomes, pedagogical practices, and assessment in their classrooms. The key principles considered while designing the pedagogical processes and assessment strategies are:

- Student-centred

- Since new knowledge is built over existing knowledge, both pedagogy and assessment shall focus on students' pre-requisite knowledge, skills, attitudes, and beliefs that they bring to a classroom setting.
- Constructivist approaches to learning with the student at the centre of the learning process as an active constructor of knowledge shall be emphasised.
- Since students effectively learn by doing, classroom processes shall involve activities and analysis of issues surrounding the environment.
- Cooperative and peer-supported teaching-learning activities shall be used to empower students to take charge of their own learning.

- Indicators centred

- The focus shifts to measurable and observable behaviour on what a student will be able to do at the end of an instruction.
- Students learn better when the method of teaching, learning activities and assessment strategies are all aligned well with the indicators. Pedagogical processes and assessment strategies shall be aligned to both content domains and cognitive skills as indicated in the indicator statements.

- Assessment centred

- Assessments should be viewed as an integral part of pedagogy and focus on giving timely individualised feedback to students. Quality formative assessments shall be designed as it helps to modulate students understanding of their own learning at different cognitive levels and helps teachers adapt their pedagogy based on student performances.

- Multiple modes of assessment, including portfolios, project work, presentations, written and oral assignments, shall be used to provide a scope to reflect the individual capacities of a student.
- Peer assessment involving students assessing the work of their peers against set assessment criteria shall be used.

2.7 Develop the Question Paper Design

The question paper design, also called the blueprint, is a map and a detailed specification that ensures that all aspects of the curriculum are covered by the question paper. It translates the design in operational terms and all the dimensions of an item (content domain and cognitive level) become clear to the question paper developer. The information in the question paper design pertains to the content domains that will be tested; cognitive levels that will be tested; number of assessment items; aggregation of the percentages of content domains and cognitive levels. A balanced design adequately represents all the content domains and uniformly addresses a range of cognitive skills. This is a planning document where all the relevant information about a question paper is listed in the form of a table.

2.8 Design Sample Select Response and Constructed Response Assessment Items

A test developer may decide the item format/item type that will be used in the test. Broadly item formats are of two kinds: Broadly item formats are of two kinds- Selected response questions like multiple choice questions, true/false where learner has to select the correct response from the options provided and Constructed response questions where the learner has to produce the correct response. These could be as short as one-word responses to long essay type questions. A sample set of assessment items of both select response type and constructed response type is included in this document.

2.9 Develop the Marking Scheme

The marking scheme is as important as the assessment item. For assessment items, particularly those assessing understanding and other cognitive levels, it is necessary to include variations in student responses. There should be scope for fully correct, partially correct, and levels of partially correct responses. Also, the marking scheme should be aligned to the cognitive level of the item. If an item is testing the application of a concept, the marking scheme should illustrate the possible responses that could be representing the application. At any given point in time, the marking scheme would only be indicative – it may not include an exhaustive summary of all possible responses.

3. Potential Uses/Users of the Document

Classroom teaching, learning and assessment: This document will be helpful for classroom teachers and students to see the connection between syllabus, textbook and learning outcomes. The indicators can be used to effectively plan classroom pedagogy and design formative assessments. The indicators can also be used by students to self-assess and plan their learning better.

Pre-service and In-service Teacher Professional Development: This document can be utilised for developing content for professional development programs for teachers both at the pre-service and in-service levels. The sample pedagogical processes and assessment strategies will provide student teachers as well as in-service teachers an insight on how to concretise the learning outcomes in the classroom.

Textbook development: Clearly stated indicators could also facilitate the review and revision of the textbooks used for the secondary stage, and in the designing of new textbooks.

Developing Assessment Frameworks and tools for large scale assessments/surveys: This document may be used for developing assessment frameworks and question papers for Board examinations of different states leading to uniformity in quality standards across states. It could be also used as a framework for drawing key indicators for National Achievement Survey (NAS). Reporting the assessment data against these outcomes will provide a comprehensive picture of the overall health of the education system of the country.

4. The Nature of the Subject

Social Science is the study of all human efforts over time and space. The purpose of Social Science learning, therefore, is to help learners understand how the world is. Social Science as a formal discipline, started with Geography and History. Over a period of almost a century, Civics and Sociology were added. At its root, the curriculum of Social Science is shaped by the need to understand academic history and the aspiration for social improvement.

The social sciences curriculum at the secondary stage integrates the concepts, processes, and disciplines of the social sciences (history, geography, economics, political science) and leads students to explore different aspects of human engagement with the world around them. The reason for such an integrated approach is in consonance with the cognitive processes of learners at this stage. Learners do not view the world through the divisions of academic disciplines but perceive the world in a holistic manner. It provides an interdisciplinary as well as a multidisciplinary lens through which learners examine issues affecting their lives from personal, national, academic, pluralistic, and global perspectives. An integrated approach helps to see the inter-connections and inter-relatedness of various facets of society. Through the study of social science, the students are enabled and encouraged to examine issues, respond critically and creatively, and make informed decisions as individuals and as citizens in an increasingly interdependent world.

The social sciences curriculum helps in developing knowledge, skills, and dispositions for lifelong learning and capacitates students to explore multiple approaches that may be used to analyse and interpret their own world and the world of others. It bears the responsibility to create and expand the conditions to spread the constitutional values of equality, liberty, justice, fraternity, trust, and respect for diversity. It sets the stage for the voice of multiple genders, the marginalised, disadvantaged as well as local perceptions that are quintessential to all discussions. The subject brings multiple ways of imagining and understanding the diversity of India.

The knowledge, skills, and dispositions developed through the study empower students to be informed, responsible citizens of India and the world, and to participate in the democratic process to improve society. The purpose of teaching Social Science will therefore be accomplished if the learner personally makes sense of how the world got where it is and what can be done to improve it.

Each of the disciplines making up the social sciences has distinct methodologies, and therefore, justifies the presence of boundaries between them. It is imperative that the learner understand the distinct method of enquiry of each subject and at the same time develop an understanding of plurality in approaching a particular phenomenon. In this context, an attempt has been made to deal with the distinct methodologies of each discipline and at the same time seamlessly integrate disciplinary boundaries wherever the scope exists.

Broadly, the core concepts dealt with in this document that illustrate disciplinary thinking are as follows:

Geographical Thinking

Concepts of spatial significance, pattern and trends, interrelationships, and geographic perspectives

Historical Thinking

Concepts of historical significance, change and continuity, cause and consequence, historical perspectives

Political Thinking

Concepts of political significance, stability, and change, objectives and results, political perspectives

Economic Thinking

Concepts of economic significance, interrelationships, cause and consequences, economic perspectives

5. Stage-specific Curricular Expectations

The stage-specific curricular expectations of the secondary stage are in the following table:

| SNo. | NCERT Secondary Level Curricular Expectations |
|-------------|--|
| CE1 | Recognise the relevance of the domain of knowledge in establishing inter-linkages with natural and social environment |
| CE2 | Classify and compare the cause-and-effect relations in the context of occurrence of events, natural and social processes and their impact on different sections of society |
| CE3 | Explain concepts like unity in diversity, democracy, development, diverse factors and forces that enrich our cultural heritage |
| CE4 | Discuss the need for evolving plurality of approaches in understanding natural social phenomena |
| CE5 | Demonstrate variety of approaches on integration and interrelation within and across disciplines |
| CE6 | Create awareness and sensitivity towards environmental issues, sustainable development, gender disparities, marginalised section of society and persons with special needs |
| CE7 | Illustrate concepts related to different subjects with the help of technology |
| CE8 | Identify spatial variability of events, processes and phenomena in the contemporary world |
| CE9 | Identify democratic ethos, equity, mutual respect equality, justice, and harmony |
| CE10 | Demonstrate skills of observation (visual & verbal forms), enquiry, reflection, empathy, communication, cooperation, critical thinking and leadership |

|-------------|---|
| CE11 | Develop an understanding of contemporary India in the historical perspective, of the basic framework of the goals and the policies of national development in independent India, and of the process of change with appropriate connections with the world development |
| CE12 | Analyse the values in the Indian Constitution and prepare for the roles and responsibilities as effective citizens of a democratic society |

7. Subject-specific Cognitive Levels

At the secondary stage, the social sciences aim to develop the methods of scientific enquiry amongst the students, and each discipline of this domain lends itself to distinctive methods of enquiry. However, at this stage, Social Science is interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary in nature and helps to understand an issue/ event or phenomenon in a holistic manner. An attempt has been made to categorise the knowledge and skills of the subject into knowing, applying, and reasoning. The three categories should be considered interrelated, reflecting the wholeness and interconnectedness of learning. The categories describe the thinking processes students shall engage with in a social science classroom.

1. Knowing: This domain addresses the student’s ability to locate and retrieve relevant knowledge from long-term memory like definitions, facts, dates, terms and terminologies that are foundational to social science. It also includes knowledge of classifications, categories, principles, ideas, theories, and models that enable students in knowing and understanding the subject.

| Recalls Recognises Locates | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identifies different types of soil, minerals, renewable and non-renewable energy resources, etc. • Defines basic terms and concepts such as nationalism, colonialism, orientalism, democracy, Satyagraha, liberty, human capital, etc. • Recalls names, places, dates, and people associated with some important historical events and developments • Locates places, states, union territories, and other physical features on the map of India. • Recognises and describes different physical features, types of forests, seasons, etc. • Locates places of historical importance on maps. |
| Explains Classifies Compares Describes Infers | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Explains the cause and effect between different historical events and developments such as the impact of print culture on the growth of nationalism in India • Describes political terms and concepts associated with democracy • Compares levels of poverty and unemployment across Indian states • Compares different monarchies of contemporary times like the United Kingdom, Saudi Arabia, and Bhutan • Illustrates how different social groups coped with changes in the contemporary world and describes these changes |

|--------------------|--|
| Illustrates | |
|--------------------|--|

2. Applying: This domain addresses student’s ability in applying the knowledge, skills and dispositions developed during the course of studying social sciences. This includes skills of observation, reflection, empathy, collaboration, listening respectfully and providing space for multiple perspectives in real life situations. It also includes using a variety of credible and reliable sources such as different kinds of texts, artwork, and charts and applying them to draw conclusions and making connections between various contexts, within the discipline and with the other disciplines, in order to understand an event or a phenomenon in its totality.

| Applies knowledge and skills in familiar contexts | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Applies concepts, procedures, spatial skills, processes, and technologies in a familiar context: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ demonstrates a variety of approaches on integration and interrelation within and across disciplines ○ demonstrates skills of observation, enquiry, reflection, empathy, communication, and critical thinking ○ collaborates with a team to determine the criteria that need to be considered when making a decision ○ demonstrates in everyday contexts attributes, skills, and work habits developed in social sciences (e.g., listen respectfully to the position of others during conversations; collaborate with peers to organise an event in their school; assess the credibility of information in a new source; voice informed opinions when engaging in discussions) |
| Transfers knowledge and skills to new contexts | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Applies concepts of thinking, procedures, spatial skills, methodologies, and technologies in new contexts: • Uses skills to assess the credibility of a source; uses appropriate organisers to manage their evidence and ideas; applies work habits such as creating and following a plan, taking responsibility when collaborating with peers • Applies the learned skills to determine perspectives e.g., media reports on a current event; to understand the significance of a new political policy; to understand ways in which a current social trend is similar to or different from past trends • Applies skills related to using graphs, charts, and tables; computer use; use of a geographic information system [GIS], satellite imagery; measurement and calculation; data analysis • Applies skills related to reading text, graphic texts, writing, document use, computer use, oral communication, numeracy, charts, and tables that can be transferred to the world of work and/or to everyday life • Uses spatial skills to read population pyramids, graphs, and thematic maps to help them identify patterns and trends related to the ageing of the population and assess their consequences. • Uses statistical data to analyse changes in family structures and thematic maps to highlight aspects of cultural diversity in various communities |

|--|---|
| Makes connections within and between various contexts | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Draws connections between topics/issues being studied and everyday life • Draws linkages between social sciences and other disciplines • Makes connections within different spatial, cultural, or environmental contexts in proposing and/or taking action to address related issues; in making predictions |
|--|---|

3. Reasoning: This domain includes students' ability to demonstrate the skills of planning, processing, critiquing, and communicating. It builds student competency in the methods of social science inquiry. It develops the skills of formulating questions related to events, issues, and phenomena; gathering and organising various forms of data, evidence, and sources; further analysing and interpreting sources and other information; drawing conclusions; communicating in various forms for different audiences. This process of inquiry in social sciences lends itself to scientific reasoning /rigour in the domains of learning within and beyond classrooms and helps in shifting away from rote learning to conceptual understanding.

8. Learning Outcomes

The following learning outcomes for the secondary stage developed by NCERT, state the important knowledge, skills and dispositions that students need to attain at the end of an academic year for Class IX and X Social Science subjects.

| S.No. | Class IX – NCERT Secondary Level Learning Outcomes |
| LO2 | Classifies and compares events, facts, data, and figures, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • classifies physical features in the surroundings and compare them with physical features of other places • compares different data, such as, population and rainfall • compares the course of events leading to important revolutions in the world such as, French and Russian Revolutions • distinguishes different types of governments operating across the world • compares levels of poverty and unemployment across Indian states • compares different monarchies of contemporary times like United Kingdom, Saudi Arabia, and Bhutan. |

| LO4 | Analyses and evaluates information, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • analyses different types of climate found in different regions of India and the world. • examines factors leading to deforestation. • outlines or assesses the working of Indian Parliament and the judiciary. • analyses historical trends in important developmental indicators, such as, literacy and poverty. • assesses the impact of important government welfare programmes which aimed at (a) poverty alleviation; (b) ensure food security; (c) generate self-employment; and (d) provide healthcare facilities |
| LO5 | Interprets, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • maps of river systems in India, physiograph, and population distribution • maps of movement of goods and people from India to the rest of the world • texts and symbols which stand for liberty, equality, and fraternity • cartoons • photographs • posters • newspaper clippings related to socio-political issues • pie and bar diagrams of data related to agricultural production, literacy, poverty, and population |
| LO6 | Draws interlinkages within Social Science, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • explains inter-relationship between various passes and sea ports in India for trade and communication since historical times. • examines the geographical importance of electoral constituencies. |

|------|--|
| | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • analyses food security as a component of agriculture. • analyses the linkages between population distribution and food security. • explains inter-relationships among livelihood patterns of various social groups including forest dwellers, economic development, and environmental conservation |
| LO7 | Identifies assumptions, biases, prejudices, and stereotypes about various aspects, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • texts • news items • visuals • political analysis • people in different geographical regions of India • important government welfare programmes |
| LO8 | Demonstrates inquisitiveness, enquiry, i.e., pose questions related to— <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • geographical events such as, the mechanism of monsoon and causes of natural disasters. • impact of green revolution in India and their own area. • legacy of French Revolution in India and the world. |
| LO9 | Constructs views, arguments, and ideas on the basis of collected or given information, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • people and their adaptation with different climatic conditions. • oral and written accounts of living historical legends, people as a resource. |
| LO10 | Extrapolates and predicts events and phenomena, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • weather • pollution and diseases • famine and poverty |
| LO12 | Shows sensitivity and appreciation skills, for example, |

|--|---|
| | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • empathises with differently abled and other marginalised sections of the society, such as, Scheduled Tribes • appreciates political diversity • appreciates cultural diversity • appreciates religious diversity • recognises language diversity • recognises social diversity • empathises with the people who were affected by wars, holocaust, natural and human-made disasters • recognises how physical and mental violence leads to immense suffering of human beings • demonstrates or exhibits sense of citizenship such as, observing hygiene and cleanliness, punctuality, follow rules, etc. |

| S.No. | Class X – NCERT Secondary Level Learning Outcomes |
| LO1 | Recognises and retrieves facts, figures, and narrate processes, For example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • identifies different types of soil, minerals, renewable and non-renewable energy resources, etc • locates areas or regions known for production of coal, iron ore, petroleum, rice, wheat, tea, coffee, rubber, and cotton textile on the map of India. • defines important terms in Geography such as, resource, renewable and non-renewable resources, subsistence agriculture, plantation, shifting agriculture, environmental protection, and environmental sustainability. • defines basic Economics terms associated with economic development such as, human capital, sustainable development, gross domestic product, gross value added, per capita income, human development index, multinational company, foreign trade, liberalisation, and foreign investment. • lists different forms of money and sources of credit, rights of consumers. • recalls names, places, dates, and people associated with some important historical events and developments such as the French Revolution, nationalism, industrialisation, globalisation, and urbanisation. • defines terms and concepts such as, nationalism, colonialism, orientalism, democracy, Satyagraha, and liberty. Defines important terms such as, federalism, diversity, religion, and political party |
| LO2 | Classifies and compares events, facts, data and figures, for example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • classifies types of resources, minerals, farming, for example, subsistence and commercial farming. • compares areas growing rice and wheat on the map of India. • compares visuals such as, the image of Bharatmata with the image of Germania. • compares European nationalism with anti-colonial nationalism in countries such as, India, South America, Kenya, Indo-China. • compares per capita income of some important countries. • differentiates consumer rights. |

| | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • classifies occupations and economic activities into sectors using different criteria. • compares the powers and functions of state and central government in India. • classifies national and regional political parties in India. • explains the terms used in political discussions and their meaning, for example, Gandhian, communist, secularist, feminist, casteist, communalist, etc. |
| LO3 | Explains cause and effect relationship between phenomena, events, and their occurrence, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • explains factors responsible for production of different crops in India. • explains industries and their impact on environment. • explains the cause and effect between different historical events and developments such as, the impact of print culture on the growth of nationalism in India. • examines the impact of technology on food availability. • assesses the impact of the global transfer of disease in the pre-modern world in different regions of the world, for example, in the colonisation of America. • analyses the impact of overuse of natural resources such as, ground water and crude oil. • analyses the change in sectoral composition of gross domestic product. • analyses the consequences of dependence on different sources of credit. • explains the policies and programmes of different political parties in the states of India. |
| LO4 | Analyses and evaluates information, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • assesses the impact of conservation of natural resources on the life of people in any area in view of sustainable development. • analyses indigenous or modern methods of conservation of water, forests, wildlife, and soil. • explains victories and defeats of political parties in general elections. • analyses texts and visuals such as, how symbols of nationalism in countries outside Europe are different from European symbols. • assesses the impact of MNREGA, role of banks as a source of credit. • assesses the impact of globalisation in their area, region, and local economy. • analyses the contribution of different sectors to output and employment. |
| LO5 | Interprets, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • maps • texts • symbols • cartoons • photographs • posters • newspaper clippings |

|-----|--|
| | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • climatic regions • changes in maps brought out by various treaties in Europe • sea and land links of the trade from India to West Asia, South East Asia and other parts of the world. • pie., and bar diagrams related to gross domestic product, production in different sectors and industries, employment and population in India |
| LO6 | Draws interlinkages within Social Science, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • analyses changes in cropping pattern, trade and culture • explains why only some regions of India are developed • analyses the impact of trade on culture. • shows the linkages between economic development and democracy. |
| LO7 | Identifies assumptions, biases, prejudices, and stereotypes about various aspects, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • region • rural and urban areas • food habits • gender • language • idea of development • voting behaviour • caste • religion • democracy • political parties • marginalised and differently abled groups • globalisation and industrialisation • the notion of progress and modernity |

| LO11 | Illustrates decision-making and problem-solving skills, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • comes out with solutions to issues in one's own area such as: (a) problems related to agriculture and transport, (b) generate employment opportunities, improve access to credit for low-income families and (c) assesses how certain developments in colonial India were useful for both colonisers as well as nationalists in different fields such as, literature, transportation and industries. |
| LO12 | Shows sensitivity and appreciation skills, for example, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • empathises with differently abled and other marginalised sections of the society, such as, forest dwellers, refugees and unorganised sector workers • appreciates political diversity • appreciates cultural diversity • appreciates religious diversity • recognises social diversity • empathises with the people who were affected by displacement, extremism and natural as well as human-made disasters; Indian indentured labourers working in different countries such as, Caribbean and Fiji |

9. Content Domain-Specific Learning Outcomes and Indicators

The learning outcomes defined by NCERT are generic and broadly defined. They are focused on the social science-specific skills that students need to attain through different concepts addressed in the syllabus. A clear understanding of the scope of these learning outcomes for each concept dealt with in a textbook chapter will be immensely helpful for both teachers and students to plan their teaching and learning better. To enable this, the following process is followed:

Content domains of history, geography, political science and economics were detailed out.

Relevant NCERT learning outcomes were identified for each key concepts in the chapter.

Content domain specific learning outcomes (CLO) were defined for relevant NCERT learning outcome under a chapter. The cognitive process addressed in NCERT learning outcome and CLO are same.

Each CLO was broken down into specific learning indicators which define the specific skills that a student needs to attain. The cognitive process addressed in indicators may be same or lower than the cognitive process addressed in the CLO.

| | | | C25. Examines the Forest Laws, government policies and community initiative taken on conservation of forests and wildlife. |
| | LO9: Constructs views, arguments, and ideas on the basis of collected or given information. | CLO10: Expresses opinions on developmental works and depletion of resources. | C26. Expresses opinions on large scale development projects vs loss of forest cover and wildlife. |
| | LO11: Illustrates decision making/problem solving skills, for example. | CLO11: Demonstrates problem solving skills to prevent loss of resources. | C27. Suggests measures to prevent loss of biodiversity. |
| 3. Water Resources <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Water Scarcity and The Need for Water Conservation and Management • Multi-Purpose River Projects and Integrated Water Resources Management Rainwater Harvesting | LO1: Recognises and retrieves facts, figures, and narrate, processes. | CLO12: Recognises and retrieves facts on water resources. | C28. Defines the terms: hydrological cycle, multi-purpose projects, rain-water harvesting. C29. Identifies / locates and labels dams and multipurpose projects on an outline map of India. |
| | LO3: Explains cause and effect relationship between phenomena, events, and their occurrence. | CLO13: Explains the correlation between physical and human environment on water resources. | C30. Explains the impact of overuse of water on environment. |
| | LO4: Analyses and evaluates information. | CLO14: Evaluates different methods to combat water scarcity. | C31. Makes a project report on the causes for water scarcity in different parts of India. C32. Distinguishes between indigenous and modern methods of water conservation. |
| | LO9: Constructs views, arguments, and ideas on the basis of collected or given information. | CLO15: Expresses opinions on advantages and disadvantages on developing multipurpose projects. | C33. Expresses their opinion on the viability of multipurpose projects through different medium (poster making/campaigning/ street plays / songs/poems etc. |

| | | | C34. Evaluates government measures in promoting rain water harvesting as an important method for water conservation. |
| 4. Agriculture <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Types of farming • Cropping Pattern • Major Crops • Technological and Institutional Reforms • Impact of Globalisation on Agriculture | LO1: Recognises and retrieves facts, figures, and narrate, processes. | CLO16: Recognises and retrieves facts on agriculture. | C35. Defines green revolution, gene revolution, organic farming, horticulture, Minimum Support Price, Sericulture. C36. Locates / Identifies the spatial distribution of major crops (rice, wheat, maize, millets, pulses, sugarcane, oilseeds, tea, coffee, rubber and horticultural crops, cotton, jute) and types of farming on an outline map of India. |
| | LO2: Classifies and compares events, facts, data and figures. | CLO17: Classifies different types of farming/crops. | C37. Classifies crops on the basis of their growing season (kharif, rabi and Zaid) and their nature e.g., food crops and non-food crops (fibre, horticulture & beverage crops). C38. Compares different types of farming (primitive subsistence farming, intensive subsistence farming, commercial farming, plantation agriculture) practiced in India – on the basis of their characteristics, methods of farming, areas where they are practiced, crops grown etc. |

|--|---|--|---|
| | | CLO19: Explains the impact of agricultural development on the country's economy. | C40. Explains the relation between agricultural practices and cropping patterns (what crops to grow, by which method and in which season) with the physical and cultural environment. C41. Infers the impact of Green Revolution on the Indian economy/environment. C42. Explains the interrelation between agricultural sector with other spheres of economy (industries & services like trade). C43. Illustrates with examples the impact of globalisation on Indian agriculture (from 19th century till today). |
| | LO4: Analyses and evaluates information. | CLO20: Analyses the role of agriculture and its impact on the country's economy. CLO21: Evaluates the future of Indian agriculture and small and marginal farmers. | C44. Analyses the importance of agriculture in the Indian economy. C45. Investigates the major cause of distress among the Indian farmers (especially the small and marginal farmers). C46. Examines the reasons for the declining trend of agriculture's share towards Gross Domestic Product (GDP) since 1951. C47. Evaluates the efficacy of the technological, institutional, and agricultural reforms and schemes embarked by the government of India to improve agriculture. C48. Critiques the effectiveness of the policies and programmes on food security system in India. |

| | | | C49. Suggests measures for balanced improvement of agriculture and environment. |
| | LO5: Interprets maps, pie, and bar diagrams. | CLO22: Interprets maps and graphs on distribution of crops and agricultural production. | C50. Interprets <ul style="list-style-type: none"> maps showing spatial distribution of crops with their corresponding climatic conditions (rainfall and temperature), soil types and relief features data (in tables) and bar diagrams showing food grain production to understand their production trend |
| 5. Minerals and Energy Resources <ul style="list-style-type: none"> What is a mineral? Mode of occurrence of Minerals Ferrous and Non-Ferrous Minerals Non-Metallic Minerals Rock Minerals Conservation of Minerals | LO1: Recognises and retrieves facts, figures, and narrate, processes. | CLO23: Recognises and retrieves facts on minerals and energy resources. | C51. Defines minerals, ores, fossil fuel, anticline, fault traps, hydroelectricity, thermal power. C52. States the mode of occurrence of minerals (Jodes, veins, beds or layers, evaporation, residual, alluvial deposits). C53. Mentions the type of coal / iron-ores found in India. C54. States the properties, formation, occurrence and utilisation of minerals and energy resources in India. C55. Identifies / locates distribution of mineral resources, energy resources and power plants on an outline map of India. |
| | LO2: Classifies and compares events, facts, data and figures. | CLO24: Classifies different types of minerals and energy resources with examples. | C56. Classifies mineral resources (metallic, non-metallic and energy minerals) with examples. |

| | | CLO25: Compares the advantages of using non- conventional sources of energy over conventional sources. | C57. Categorises metallic minerals (ferrous, non-ferrous, and precious) with examples. C58. Classifies energy resources (conventional and non-conventional) with examples. C59. Compares the use of non-conventional energy sources over conventional energy sources. |
| | LO3: Explains cause and effect relationship between phenomena, events, and their occurrence. | CLO26: Explains the causal relation between distribution of mineral and energy resources with economic development of a country. CLO27: Explains the negative impact of mining on physical and human environment. | C60. Explains the co-relation between the distribution of minerals and energy resources with the industrial development of a region. C61. Draws connection between generation of hydroelectricity with physical / natural environment. C62. Explains the risks/menace of mining on the health of miners and the environment. |
| | LO4: Analyses and evaluates information. | CLO28: Evaluates the safety rules of mining. CLO29: Evaluates the need for judicious use of resources and their conservation. | C63. Examines the safety standards and environmental laws to combat mining hazards. C64. Evaluates the justification for the judicious use of minerals and energy resources for sustainable development. C65. Suggests measures for conservation of mineral and energy resources. |
| 6. Manufacturing Industries • Importance of manufacturing | LO1: Recognises and retrieves facts, figures, and narrate, processes. | CLO30: Recognises and retrieves facts related to manufacturing industries. | C66. Locate the following in the political world map: • Cotton Textile Industries: a. Mumbai b. Indore c. Surat d. Kanpur e. |

LO4: Analyses and evaluates information.

CLO37: Analyses the seasonal movements in different geographies.

CLO38: Analyses the effect of the implementation of Acts by the British on the pastoral communities.

Indicators:

C161. Examines the seasonal movement of the pastoral communities in the mountains, plains, plateaus, and the desert.

C162. Analyses the impact of the colonial rule on the pastoral lives:

- Expanding cultivation
- Forest Acts
- Criminal Tribes Act
- Increase in taxation

C163. Examines how the pastoralists cope with the changes in their lives.

C164. Critiques the turning of grazing land into game reserves and its effects on the Maasai community.

Activity:

Teachers may:

- As a class, develop a set of guidelines/rules to follow when engaged in group activities
- Before beginning a small group activity remind students of the norms of collaboration.
- Address 21st century skill -collaboration

Teachers may:

- When organising students to work cooperatively, provide a copy of a scoring guide (sample provided below; adapt to best suit individual needs and goals).
- Review the criteria with the class to help ensure that all students have a clear understanding of what successful collaboration looks like.

Initiating activity:

Topic: Pastoral Nomads and the movements

Teachers may:

- Divide the class into 4 groups
- Each group reads and annotates the text (page 98-102, Section 1.1-1.2)
- Following guiding questions are provided in the graphic organiser (1).
- Students fill up the graphic organiser.
- Each group share the findings with the larger group
- Summarisation/consolidation:
- Consolidation of the seasonal movements by various pastoral communities in different geographical locations.

Rubric for Collaboration:

| Criteria | Rating | | | Example(s) |
|---|--------|---|---|------------|
| | 1 | 2 | 3 | |
| I was respectful of my partners' ideas. | | | | |
| I was on-task. | | | | |
| I contributed equally to the task. | | | | |
| I encouraged my partner(s) to fully engage with the task. | | | | |
| add other criteria | | | | |

Summarisation/consolidation of the analysis and inferences drawn/Post-analysis discussion questions:

- What kind of restrictions did the pastoral communities face in India and Africa?
- What were the reasons for posing restrictions on the movement of the pastoralists?
- How did the expansion of cultivation affect them?
- How did the change in the geopolitical map of India and Africa affect the pastoralist communities?

Based on the above discussion students draw linkages between the condition of pastoralists in Africa and India.

Interdisciplinary concept:

LO6: Draws interlinkages within Social Science.

CLO40: Draws linkages within social sciences on politics, economy, and geography with regards to pastoralism.

CLO41: Reflects on idea of 'Space' (geography, history, and political science).

Indicators:

C167. Determines how geography, economy and seasons play an important role with regards to the seasonal movements of the pastoralist in India and Africa.

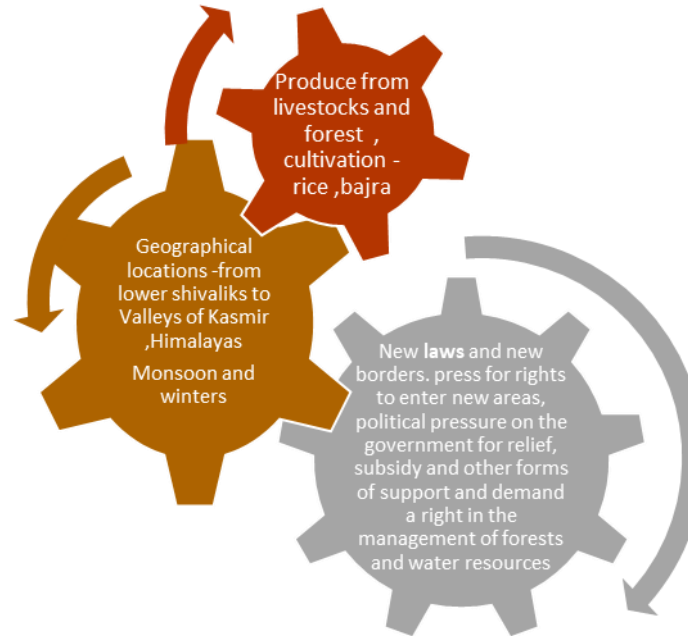

C168. Reflects on the idea of Space (different spaces used by the whites and blacks -prohibition) and relates with other countries (India, Germany, South Africa) on spatial segregation. 'Kaekoveid permits to enter 'Magistrate to police station Commanders of Outjo and Kamanjab,24th November,1937.

C169. Explores how the changes in the political boundaries/territorial affected the pastoral communities in India and Africa.

C170. Reasons how the scramble for Africa in Europe and USA

In order to have a holistic understanding of an issue, event, or phenomenon, it is imperative that the perspectives and skills of social sciences are to be used in totality.

The teacher may, with the help of the students, model out an example of an interdisciplinary concept from the present chapter.

The idea of 'space':

How can one visualise the idea of space in all the four disciplines of social sciences and relate how space was represented in history at different times?

Read and observe all the documents and answer the following in the graphic organiser:

How is the idea of space referred to in the four documents? Provide evidence from the documents to support your answer.

C171. Justifies that ecologically pastoralism is the most viable form of life and is suited to many hilly and dry regions.

Document I

Thus, from the beginning, there were separate quarters for Europeans and Indians, which came to be labelled in contemporary writings as the “White Town” and “Black Town” respectively. Once the British captured political power these racial distinctions became sharper

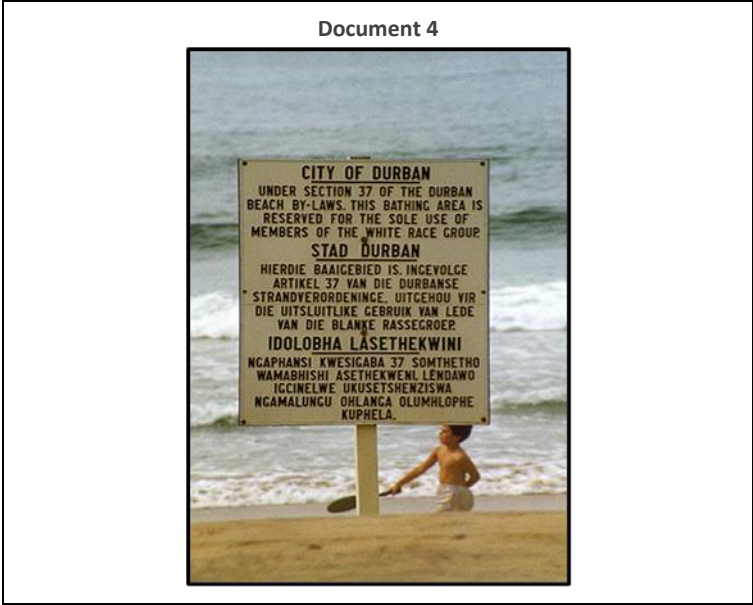

Document II

In most places in colonial Africa, the police were given instructions to keep a watch on the movements of pastoralists and prevent them from entering white areas. The following is one such instruction given by a magistrate to the police, in southwest Africa, restricting the movements of the pastoralists of Kaokoland in Namibia: ‘Passes to enter the Territory should not be given to these Natives unless exceptional circumstances necessitate their entering ... The object of the above proclamation is to restrict the number of natives entering the Territory and to keep a check on them, and ordinary visiting passes should therefore never be issued to them.

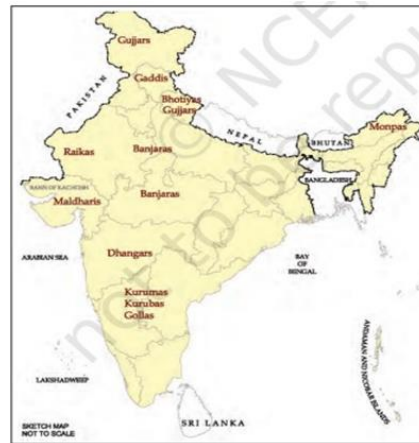

’ ‘Kaokoveld permits to enter’, Magistrate to Police Station Commanders of Outjo and Kamanjab, 24 November 1937.

The other aspect of Hitler’s ideology related to the geopolitical concept of Lebensraum or living space. He believed that new territories had to be acquired for settlement. This would enhance the area of the mother country while enabling the settlers on new lands to retain an intimate link with the place of their origin.

With The Castafiore Emerald (1963), Hergé was one of the first to depict gypsies in a way that broke free of the prejudices of his time. It is by meeting and speaking with the gypsies that Tintin and Captain Haddock also manage to see through some of the false and widespread myths about these people. The story revolves around a number of supposed thefts and a missing emerald. It seems like almost everyone is a suspect. A cheeky magpie appears at the beginning and right at the end of the story; readers finally discover that the little bird has been behind the drama.

10.2 Class X

10.2.1 Political Science Chapter I: Power Sharing

Key Concepts:

- Idea of Power sharing
- Belgium and Sri Lanka: Majoritarianism and Accommodation
- Need for Power sharing
- Forms of Power sharing

Political Science in grades 9 and 10 takes the student from examining the ideas, institutions and rules of democracy to how democracy works in practice. It deepens the concepts of democracy, rights, responsibilities, political and administrative structures, governance, Constitution, prejudices and inequality, to the processes of power sharing, federalism in India and its outcomes and challenges. It draws the students to explore the broader thinking around each of these concepts.

- These pedagogical samples help the teacher demonstrate ways to unfold, the idea of vertical power sharing, through the lens of two case examples. It will create opportunities for the student to identify the impact of powerlessness, the need for power sharing in a democracy and its different forms.
- The teaching-learning process moves to examine the key concepts power sharing and demonstrates how the learner can explore the perspectives around the need for power sharing and its significance for democracy.

Let them know that they represent that group. A set of questions is prepared based on the socio-political dynamics of the countries being discussed. Students start from a single line and for every question called out by the teacher, they either move ahead or take a step back as per the instruction. The teacher can frame questions about the experience of the different social groups in both countries. For example, questions can be framed as: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • If your language is accepted and respected in your country take a step forward. • If your community has equal representation in the government like other social groups take a step forward | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Students discuss and refine their thoughts in small groups and write their understanding of the different ways of power-sharing in the two countries. • They tabulate the benefits and disadvantages for all vis a vis a majority in the context of diversity. • They compare experiences of different social groups in accessing public spaces (for example health care, education, and living spaces) in terms of their multiple identities in the context of the pandemic. |

| Part | Marks | Answer |
|-------------|--------------|--|
| | 3 | The response reflects a comprehensive analysis of the situation with specific examples of how various societies/individuals have been impacted. Some illustrative argument provided could be: In many societies, women bear the major responsibility of collecting fuel, fodder, water and other basic subsistence needs. As these resources are depleted, the drudgery of women increases and sometimes they have to walk several kms to collect these resources. This causes serious health problems for women and negligence of home and children because of the increased hours of work, which often has serious social implications . The indirect impact of degradation such as severe drought or deforestation-induced floods, etc. also hits the poor the hardest. Poverty in these cases is a direct outcome of environmental destruction. OR any other relevant points. |
| | 2 | The response indicates factual knowledge of the issue with 2 or more examples explained |
| | 1 | The response states some basic facts without adequate explanation or analysis of the situation. |

| Item stem | The pandemic lockdowns and decline in economic activity have affected different social groups differently. During this period unequal burdens of housework and care work were imposed on men and women everywhere. In some societies, like India, it has been disproportionately more, where women spend more time on domestic chores and care work. This led to a sharper gender gap in domestic unpaid work as women spent more time in this activity. Examine the Infographic given below in this light. Analyse the underlying reasons for this data in the context of challenges to women’s right to be recognised as equal citizens. |

• In April 2020 alone, 17 million women – nearly two-thirds of India's female workers – lost their jobs. APU data finds an already low 9.15% work participation rate (WPR) for women in 2019 shrank to 5.8% in 2020. In comparison, the WPR for men fell from 67% to 47%. Women employed before the lockdown are 23.5% less likely than men to be re-employed – women's unemployment could cause an 8% loss to India's GDP

• Surveys find 66% women have also experienced a rise in unpaid care work since the pandemic – women spend 84% of their working hours in unpaid activities, while men spend 80% working hours on paid work

| | ½ x 6 = 3 | The response reflects a comprehensive analysis of the prompt with specific examples of how various societies/individuals have been impacted. Some illustrative arguments provided could be: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The underlying reasons for this data on women lie in the concept of patriarchy which hinders a woman's right to be recognised as an equal citizen. 2. Women face disadvantage, discrimination, and oppression in various ways as the concept of patriarchy values men more and gives them power over women. |

| | | 3. Patriarchy drives the sexual division of labour, a system in which all work inside the home is either done by the women of the family or organised by them through the domestic helpers. 4. Patriarchy conditions men to think that it is for women to attend to household work. Men only do such jobs when they are paid for them. 5. The proportion of women in the highly paid and valued jobs is small. 6. On average, a woman in India works one hour more than an average man every day. Yet much of her work is not paid and therefore often not valued despite the Equal Remuneration Act, 1976, which provides that equal wages should be paid to equal work. |

There are several government campaigns regarding the girl child in India. Some of these are:

- a. Save the Girl Child,
- b. Beti Bachao Beti Padhao,
- c. Sukanya Samridhi Yojana
- d. CBSE Udaan Scheme
- e. Free or subsidized education for girl child,
- f. Reservation for women in colleges and universities

1. What inference can you draw from the infographic on women's political representation vis a vis India?
2. Why do you think women remain underrepresented in state and national decision-making bodies?
3. What assumptions and biases about women have led the government to institute the campaigns mentioned above?

| | 3 | The response reflects a comprehensive analysis of the prompt with specific examples of how various societies/individuals have been impacted. Some illustrative arguments provided could be: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. There is an increase in the number of women voters and their participation in Indian elections. According to the data from 2014, the female voter turnout was higher than male turnout in 16 states and union territories out of 35. However, only 11 per cent of Lok Sabha members were women. Of these 43 per cent belonged to families with political backgrounds. b. Article 14 guarantees equality before the law as well as equal protection of the law to all people within the territory of India. Women face social and gender biases and assumptions about their ability and capability to decide, lead and contribute to society due to a patriarchal mindset in families and communities. c. These have led the government to run campaigns to fight these biases that lead to female infanticide, poor nutrition, bias against educating girls, early marriage etc. Government campaigns in the form of financial and educational subsidies, and deterrent laws focus on shifting societal mindsets. |

| A note on the issue: Saving nearly lost languages “Language is not just a collection of words with which to communicate but also a powerful tool, even an archive, of memory. “Nearly 200 languages in India are endangered—children no longer speak them or even the elders remember only scattered words and phrases. With the loss of a language, everything from a particular way of life to traditional wisdom disappears... Most people remember the death of Andaman’s Bo language with the passing of its last speaker, Boa Sr, over a decade ago. Lesser known is the danger to the many languages of the North-East and central India that are rapidly losing out to migration, government policy, homogenization, and domination by the dialects of trade and livelihood. “(As) African-American novelist Toni Morrison said in her Nobel Prize lecture in 1993: “We die. That may be the meaning of life. But we do language. That may be the measure of our lives.” Essentially, until we talk about it, until we say it, in words of our own choosing, does an experience become real? It’s one among the countless reasons to safeguard the diversity and languages of the many dialects in India.” Read the article excerpt in the box. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1.
