Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions.

In India, agriculture was an integral part of popular culture and gave rise to annual fairs, cattle melas, festivals and rituals, all of which were occasions for celebration. Almost every part of India had its own dates and customs for the purpose. Akshaya Tritiya, for instance, a Hindu and Jain festival, is now often taken to be an auspicious day for buying gold, but it is also a harvest festival in parts of western and northern India. Lohri in Punjab and neighbouring states, Magh Bihu in Assam, Nabanna in Bengal, Onam in Kerala or Pongal in Tamil Nadu, among others, most of them accompanied with rituals honouring cows and bullocks. Such festivals not only helped to bond local communities together, but have promoted national integration.

A prosperous agriculture being the base of strong kingdoms or empires, it was almost always supported by the multitudes of Indian rulers. The tradition was to impose minimal tax on farmers, rarely exceeding one-sixth of the produce. We probably need to continuously remind ourselves of the wisdom of our ancestors and provide genuine respect and importance to farmers.

- a. Agriculture was part of rulers' culture.
 - b. Farmers were friendly with the rulers.
 - c. Agriculture was a major source of wealth for the kingdom
 - d. Farmers used to pay huge tax
39. How much tax farmers used to pay?
- a. All of their income
 - b. A small proportion of their income.
 - c. A large proportion of their income.
 - d. Tax was never levied on farmers.
40. Why do we need to value farmers more in the current scenario?
- a. Farmers take care of cattle.
 - b. Farmers are poor.
 - c. Farmers worship cows and bullocks.
 - d. Agricultural income is one of the main sources of Indian economy.
